New Commercial Magnum® Padlocks from The Master Lock Company draw rave reviews at ALOA Expo

(MILWAUKEE, WIS.) – August 11, 2016 – The Master Lock Company successfully introduced the new Magnum® padlocks at the Associated Locksmiths of America (ALOA) Convention & Security Expo on August 5-6 in Orlando.

Commercial Magnum is designed with security and weatherability enhancements for facility and business applications. The octagonal, chrome-plated boron-carbide shackle is 50% stronger than hardened steel. The stainless steel body cover with stainless steel top and bottom plates provides improved weather resistance, with a stronger defense against the elements.

“The Magnum padlocks made a big impression with locksmiths who attended the ALOA Expo,” commented Sherri Hanson, Senior Product Manager for The Master Lock Company. “Many people were impressed with the chrome-plated shackle because it offers excellent rust resistance. Others liked the dual-ball bearing locking mechanism for its superior strength and pry resistance. They left the show knowing Commercial Magnum is a great choice for securing items or property in any outdoor, corrosive and caustic environment.”

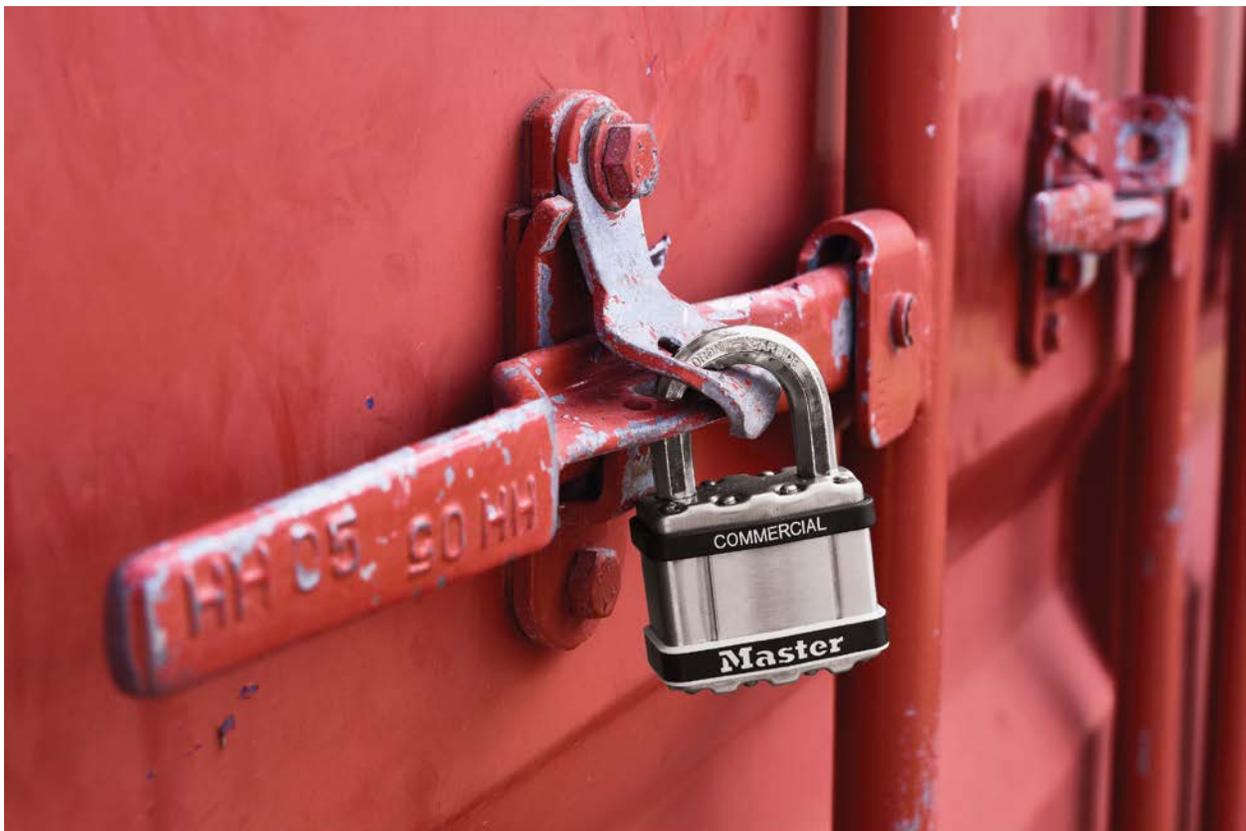

Master Lock provides the opportunity to customize products with made-to-order solutions, including laser engraving and keying flexibility. Commercial Magnum padlocks offer two body sizes – 1-3/4 inches and 2-inches wide – and three shackle heights each. They can be ordered keyed alike, master keyed, and keyed to match any existing 4-pin W1 or Edge® Key Control systems. Edge Key Control is the exclusive key control system that allows customers to maintain control over the duplication of their keys from Master Lock locksmiths only.
